

Free Pre-registration for Blue Marble User Conference

Blue Marble Geographics is offering free registration to their Third Annual User Conference in Denver, CO (USA). This one-day conference on 3rd November 2011 will be held at the Grand Hyatt Denver from 8:00 AM until 5:00 PM CST. During the event, key users at several industry-leading companies, including the USGS, Topcon, Raytheon and Merrick and Company, will share their experiences. The topics of discussion will range from natural resources management and drilling to Lidar data processing.

Blue Marble understands the significance of staying well informed in such a fast paced industry, which is why they feel it is important to make this educational experience as accessible to their users as possible through offering free registration.

Members of the Blue Marble Product Management Team will demonstrate the latest features and functionality found within the Blue Marble Desktop and the GeoCore Developer Toolkit. Specific examples will show how these changes can best benefit users' geospatial data work flow. The Blue Marble User Conference is a great opportunity to speak with the Blue Marble Team, and fellow users, to learn how to best maximise the investment when using Blue Marble Software.
