

ISPRS Congress 2016: Full Paper Deadline Extended

The organising committee of the XXIII ISPRS Congress has announced that the deadline for full papers has been extended up to 13 December. It is expected that the extension will allow authors to have enough time to finalise their papers in peace and to the expected quality.

The ISPRS Congress will be held in Prague from 12-19 July in Prague, Czech Republic. Registration for the Congress already is possible. If you are interested you can find the best participant status that fits your needs and take part precisely in those activities you want. It is possible to purchase the gala dinner ticket in advance and with full registration or win a with the ISPRS 2016 mobile application game.

You can also go for the standard registration, which has all the benefits of a basic registration but also includes a lunch for each day of the Congress.
