

Aerometrex Acquires Atlass

Aerometrex, Australia, has acquired the businesses of the Australian aerial Lidar specialists Atlass (Aust.) Pty Ltd and Atlass Aviation Pty Ltd. The businesses have been combined into a single entity, Atlass-Aerometrex Pty Ltd. The acquisition extends the Aerometrex group's aerial surveying capabilities and provides new business growth opportunities.

Atlass will continue to trade from its Rockhampton base. The business has a strong client base in Queensland and New South Wales and is set to expand further.

Aerometrex managing director, Mark Deuter, says Atlass' business is known for very short turnaround times. He expresses to have been impressed with the organisational strength of the business.

For Aerometrex, the acquisition of Atlass enables them to provide a wider range of services, like Lidar capabilities. Services like aerial imaging, photogrammetry and 3D modelling capabilities are now available to Atlass clients.

<https://www.gim-international.com/content/news/aerometrex-acquires-atlass>
