

Emapsite Middle East Opens Second Saudi Office

A leading geospatial solutions provider is expanding its Middle East operations with the opening of its second office in Saudi Arabia. Less than a year after launch, Emapsite Middle East has opened an office in the Al Faisaliah Tower in Riyadh to add to its original base in Jameel Square, Jeddah.

The company specialises in GIS and environmental monitoring with an experienced team handling consultancy, training and technical contracts with government and business clients. Justin Saunders, international director of Emapsite Middle East, said the expansion comes amid growing recognition in the Gulf of the importance of GIS and high-resolution imagery integration.

Emapsite Middle East was officially launched at the Gulf Environment Forum in May 2011. The company brings together a range of experience in GIS, environmental monitoring, environmental impact assessments, habitat and ecosystems mapping, engineering and construction, and urban and infrastructure planning.

Emapsite Middle East clients include the Presidency of Meteorology and Environment (PME), Ministry of Agriculture, Agricultural Development Fund (ADF), KPMG, SBG and Saudi ARAMCO.
