

ESRI Developer Network Program

ESRI (CA, USA) has announced the ESRI Developer Network (EDN), an annual subscription-based program. The objectives of the program include providing developers with GIS tools and resources based on the ArcGIS platform. EDN subscriptions are available to all developer customers, not just ESRI business partners. An annual subscription provides a library of software for developing and testing applications and a collaborative developer Web site for use by both ESRI developers and program subscribers that is the portal to all things of interest to an ArcGIS developer. A comprehensive help system is included also.

<https://www.gim-international.com/content/news/esri-developer-network-program>
