

Gold for Mapscape

Mapscape has won a Gold award for the best digital mapping product at the International Map Trade Association (IMTA) awards. Mapscape is a new product from Spatial Vision, Australia, that delivers high-performance mapping.

Held in Brisbane at the 2012 International Geospatial Forum, the awards were open to all IMTA Asia Pacific members and were judged in six categories, including the competitive digital mapping products category.

The products were judged on the design, usability, quality of service to their respective market segments and distinguishing characteristics.

Mapscape's award winning features are feature-rich maps, built from official government data suitable for any organisation or groups, seamless multi-scale, multi-platform, using standard technology compliant with the Open Geospatial Consortium WMTS. Through its Portable Offline Usage Mapscape can be used offline on iPads, a feature particularly useful in areas where mobile network coverage is too slow, too costly, intermittent or non-existent.
