

How Can We Further Improve the Information We Provide?

What is the value of high-quality journalism in the geospatial industry? Please complete our survey to help us find out! At GIM International, we are convinced that objective and independent information is indispensable in the life of any professional. And we are striving to deliver that information on a daily basis – through our newsletters, websites and magazines – to thousands of geoprofessionals all over the world.

Our website serves a rapidly growing readership with a broad range of freely available news, in-depth articles, case studies and market analysis. We are interested in hearing just how valuable all this information is to you in your daily work. Therefore, we would greatly appreciate it if you would complete our survey (all responses will be anonymous).

By helping us to gain a better understanding of media consumption in the geospatial industry, you will support our ultimate goal of further improving our products and better tailoring them to your – and other readers' – needs. Many thanks in advance!

Complete our survey here!

<https://www.gim-international.com/content/news/how-can-we-further-improve-the-information-we-provide>
