

Luciad Kicks off Global Seminar Series and Announces User Conference

Luciad, a provider of geospatial software tools, has kicked off its global seminar series beginning in Rome, Italy, on 15 March. The company has also announced the dates of its fourth annual Luciad User Conference in Brussels on 4-5 October 2017.

Customers and prospects can interact with Luciad at local seminars, global industry events and the Luciad User Conference, which brings together several hundred geospatial professionals and developers. These events allow participants to find out about new features and see where geospatial technology is going, said Lida Joly, chief marketing officer at Luciad.

The first of several global seminars, Luciad hosted its first regional events in Rome and Kuala Lumpur on 15 March, followed by a seminar in Jakarta on March 16. Luciad will host similar events in Madrid on 11 May and Shrivenham, UK on 1 June. The company will announce dates for seminars in Mexico City and Paris in the coming weeks.

The global software provider has demonstrated its geospatial platform at the World ATM Congress in Madrid, a seminar on Disruptive Geospatial Technology with partner Intelgeo in Mexico, Big Data Paris with Luciad partner Integrytis, Security & Policing 2017 in London with Luciad partner Borwell, Open Belgium in Brussels, Homesec Security & Defense Technologies in Madrid, Securex West Africa in Lagos, Tech Days an event organized by Australian partner Dedicated Systems.

To learn more about all Luciad events, visit the Luciad website.