

New BAE Sales Director Americas

BAE Systems (CA, USA) has named Mark E. Sarojak sales director for the Americas, representing GXP, the company's line of Geospatial eXploitation Products. Mr Sarojak will report to Dan London, GXP vice-president sales and marketing, and will focus on expanding the US sales force and building an extensive distributor network in Latin America. He joined BAE Systems in 2002 as systems engineering manager/architect for SOCET GXP. Before joining BAE Systems, he worked as a software engineer and technical lead for various software development projects.
