

Slagboom & Peeters Purchases Vexcel Camera

Slagboom & Peeters Luchtfotografie, a Dutch aerial photography company, has signed an agreement with Vexcel Corporation of Austria for the purchase of an Ultracam-X digital framecamera, which has a 216 megapixel total CCD capacity.

'With this new system we expect to improve the amount of visible detail in our images. Also with the larger footprint of this camera flying costs for any given project will be quite a bit lower.' Slagboom & Peeters Luchtfotografie commented.

The new system will be available in early 2007. For the time being the older Ultracam-D, a system designed over three years ago, will remain in service for less demanding missions.
