

Tensing Appoints Tino Versteeye as Executive VP Business Development

As per February 1st, 2007, Tino Versteeye has been appointed as executive vice president business development at Tensing b.v. From 1993 to 1996 Tino Versteeye worked at Origin Germany as sales manager North Rine-Westphalia.

He continued his career as global account director Lucent Technologies from 1996 to 1999. From 1999 until the take over of EDS in 2001 he was Executive Vice President Business Development at the system integrator Systematics AG in Germany. In 2001 he was one of the founders of Aventeon and until 2006 Tino was worldwide responsible for marketing and sales.

At Tensing he will, among others, be responsible for the business extension of Tensing to an international operating product organisation and for acquisitioning and managing large international accounts.

Source: Tensing

<https://www.gim-international.com/content/news/tensing-appoints-tino-versteeye-as-executive-vp-business-development>
