

XPONENTIAL 2020 Postponed

The AUVSI board of directors have made the difficult but necessary decision to postpone AUVSI XPONENTIAL 2020. The decision is based on currently available information, and with the best interests of exhibitors, attendees and the global community in mind. The organizers are working on shifting the dates of XPONENTIAL 2020 to a more suitable timeframe and have tentatively identified the dates of 10-12 August for the 2020 event.

“We are currently working closely with our convention venue and hotel partners in Boston to identify and secure the required amount and types of function space and requisite number of hotel rooms in the City of Boston to successfully conduct AUVSI XPONENTIAL 2020. Once we have secured the necessary facilities and agreements to do so, AUVSI staff will work to adjust all existing exhibitor and sponsor agreements, as well as registration policies, to reflect the new dates. Currently, all existing agreements and terms remain in effect in order to make the transition to the new date as seamless and expedient as possible,” Brian P. Wynne, president & CEO of AUVSI stated.

Plans may change

Wynne continued: “Please be advised however, that AUVSI's current plans to conduct XPONENTIAL 2020 this August may change, given how rapidly the COVID-19 situation is evolving and whether further measures will need to be instituted to stem the spread of COVID-19, since your health, well-being and safety are our top priority. We will continue to actively assess all potential opportunities to best serve the needs of our community while delivering the world-class event you have come to expect from AUVSI. We will provide updates on our progress as additional information becomes available.”
